

design innovation
for new growth

INNOVATION FELLOWS

DING is an 18 month project funded by the Arts and Humanities Research Council delivering design innovation as a strategy for growth in the creative economy of the Highlands and Islands.

Our discipline - Design Innovation - addresses complex challenges through new design practices and bespoke community engagement. We seek to create and design preferable futures that will lead to collective wellbeing and sustainable growth for Scotland. The development and expression of collaborative creativity is our core research domain and expertise.

To apply or for more information, please contact:

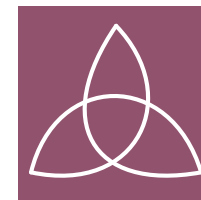

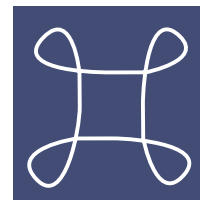

Dr Michael Pierre Johnson

m.johnson@gsa.ac.uk

INNOVATION
SCHOOL
THE GLASGOW
SCHOOL OF ART

UNIVERSITY of STIRLING

CASHFORCREATIVES

CRAFTTEXTILES DIGITALFESTIVAL FUTUREDESIGN HERITAGE

Applications are invited for The Glasgow School of Art Innovation Fellowships providing up to £2500 for time and expenses for creative pioneers to develop new and enhanced practices, products, networks and audiences across the H&I creative economy.

To apply for this unique opportunity please send us:

- 1 page CV with contact details, practice and experience
- Up to 5 images of your work or web links (max 5MB)
- A DING Innovation Fellow Application Form

Forms can be obtained by contacting Michael at m.johnson@gsa.ac.uk

Application Deadline is 31st January 2018. We encourage prospective applicants to get in touch to best position their project proposals.

Arts & Humanities
Research Council

ALBA | CHRUTHACHAIL

Highlands and Islands Enterprise
Iomairt na Gàidhealtachd 's nan Eilean